LOCAL & GENERAL NEWS.
The bark Forest Queen walked out to sea from Brewer's wharf this afternoon with a stiff breeze.

The steamer C. R. Bishop arrived from Kona this morning, and departs again this evening for Hanalei.

Dick Davis' blooded trotter stallion arrived by the barkentine S. G. Wilder this morning, and was landed in good order.

The steamship Gaelic, for which Messrs. Hackfeld & Co. are agents, will leave here for San Francisco on or about the 4th of next month.

Love's bakery will be prepared to deliver hot cross buns to any part of the city, on Good Friday, March 30, between the hours of 5 A. M. and 6 P. M.

The Hawaiian Band played charmingly last night under the double electric light at Thomas Square. A policeman kept the hoodlum element in check.

The bark W. McLaren with coal from Newcastle, N. S. W., was seen several miles to sea this afternoon, beating her way to this port. Her foretop-gallant mast is gone.

A WELL-PRESERVED skull was dug up yesterday, where the kerosene warehouse extension is being made. An old resident here says that lots of people were buried there in early days.

The main and mizen top-masts of the barkentine Planter, which were carried away by colliding with another vessel when being towed out of San Francisco, have been replaced by new ones.

Captain Fehler may be seen steadily gliding about town with what appears to be a subscription list, but what is really a list of names of parties who have forgotten when their licenses expired.

The run on Horn's Butter Scotch keeps up, and consumers keep on coming. Boys and girls on their way to and returning from school are munching Butter Scotch. The niceness of the article is the secret of demand and consumption.

J. E. Brown & Co.'s serated waters "won't keep" in the Bulletin office—not owing to the impurity of the atmosphere nor the inferiority of the manufacture, but on account of its good qualities, which insure its rapid consumption. Another case was emptied yesterday, and the bottles are waiting to be refilled.

THOSE STAINED TROUSERS.

The following explains itself:
HONOLULU, H. I.,
Mar. 27, 1888.
J. H. Soper, Marshal:
Dear Sir:—I have made a chemical and microscopic examination of the stains on the trousers of a Portuguese arrested last evening, and find same to be from nitrate of silver.
(Signed), Geo. W. Smith.

ARRIVAL OF THE S. G. WILDER.

The barkentine S. G. Wilder, Captain Paul, arrived this morning from San Francisco. Captain Paul reports 18 days of light winds and no trades. Captain Rugg, who brought the Wilder here last trip, was in San Francisco when the Wilder left. Among the passengers by the Wilder, as will be seen by the list, were Mr. James and Miss Carrie Tregloan. The S. G. Wilder is docked at Brewer's wharf.

OPIUM AND LIQUOR.

Antone Pettina, cook of the bark Forest Queen, was found guilty of smuggling opium, in the Police Court yesterday afternoon and fined $400. Messrs. V. V. Ashford and Paul Neumann appeared for Pettina, while Deputy Attorney-General Peterson and Deputy Marshal Hopkins conducted the prosecution. The attorneys for the defense noted an appeal to the Supreme Court.

Later the appeal was withdrawn, the fine paid, and the steward departed by his vessel this afternoon. Antone most likely found this trip pretty expensive. Four hundred and sixty-two half-pound tins of opium, at $7 per tin, $2,800 lawyers' fees, and $400 fine, amounts to $3,844.

Jack McVay, who was pounced upon by Captain Larson, Sunday morning, was found guilty of selling spirituous liquors without a licence, and fined $125.

A HUMBAG TREATY.

Following is what the S. F. Chronicle, of the 23rd of February, says about our treaty:

At the time of the extension of the notorious Hawaiian Reciprocity Treaty it was loudly proclaimed that the United States had made an immense gain for itself in securing the concession of Pearl River harbor. It was asserted that this was of sufficient importance to more than balance the enormous loss of revenue which this country suffers from that treaty, it being represented that the use of Pearl River harbor would practically place in the hands of the United States the full control and the destiny of the Hawaiian Kingdom.

It was pointed out at that time, especially by the Chronicle, that if Pearl River harbor were to be made at all useful as a naval station it would have to be improved at the cost of many million dollars; that in its present condition no vessel of the United States navy could enter the harbor; that it would require to be fortified at an enormous expense, and that in no aspect of the case could it be of advantage to the United States, especially as we have already a coaling station in the harbor of Honolulu, which is all that would be required, unless the United States proposed to go into the colonization business, which it did not.

Notwithstanding this, Pearl river was successfully worked for all it was worth, and very much more, and under its spell the Senate yielded to the wishes of the President and ratified, so far as it constitutionally could, the extension of the treaty. No doubt Pearl river was the moving cause, and the Senate really thought the United States was getting something of value.

Now, however, there is made public for the first time a letter from the Minister Resident of the Hawaiian kingdom to Secretary Bayard, in which the former, with the utmost diplomatic courtesy, and with that circumspection so characteristic of international communications, calls the attention of the Secretary of State to the fact that the autonomy of the kingdom is not surrendered, so far as Pearl river is concerned; that the United States may use it as it may use any other harbor in the islands, and, most important of all, that the exclusive right to use it is only for seven years, or during the existence of the treaty. So the wonderful concession to the United States turns out to be mere phrases—an empty, meaningless string of words.

With this construction of the treaty Mr. Bayard evidently agrees, as his reply to the Hawaiian Minister clearly indicates. He says he can see no subtraction from Hawaiian sovereignty over Pearl River harbor, nor any language implying a longer duration to the use of the harbor than the life of the treaty itself. In short, he accedes to every claim of the Hawaiian Minister, and decides that all we have got for the renewal is the right to use a harbor which we do not want for a period of seven years, and that under the jurisdiction and control of the Hawaiian Government.

The Chronicle has already called attention to the evident unconstitutionality of this extension of the reciprocity treaty, for the reason that it could be extended only by an Act of Congress, not by the President and Senate; and if the House of Representatives is not wholly deceived by partisan zeal and wholly besotted by its admiration for its idol, it will renew the inquiry made at the last session through its Judiciary Committee, and request Mr. Cleveland to explain upon what theory he took the responsibility of altering the revenue laws of the United States by negotiating a treaty which admitted Hawaiian sugar duty free. Now that it has been shown that the treaty itself is a humbug, and that the much-talked-of concession is valueless, perhaps the House may conclude to insist on its prerogative and demand that the treaty be abrogated, unless the popular branch of Congress have an opportunity to pass upon it.

FUNNY BECAUSE UNTRUE.

There is no truth in this paragraph, clipped from the Boston Journal of February 1st, but, for all that, in California, who reads it can repress laughter? Plowing in California has its disadvantages. At this season especially farmers who are plowing new ground turn up numerous tarantulas and rattlesnakes, the latter being in a dormant state, but the former as lively as possible. One farmer recently killed a rattlesnake which had nine-teen rattles.

INTERESTING FIGURES.

The mean height of the land above sea level, according to John Murray, is 2250 feet, and the mean depth of the ocean is 12,480 feet. Only 2 percent of the sea is included inside a depth of 500 fathoms, while 75 percent lies between 500 and 3000 fathoms. If the land were filled into the hollows the sea would roll over the earth's crust to a uniform depth of two miles.

SOURCES OF ARTESIAN WATER SUPPLY.

The sedimentary rocks in their great thickness include a succession of water-sheets or water-levels occupying distinct stages and extending with uniform characters under whole countries like the strata to which they are subordinated. It is proper to remark here that by the term water-sheet is not meant a real bed of water lodged in a cavity between solid masses that serve as walls to it, but water filling the minute interstices of the cracks of a rock. Continuous and regular in sand these sheets are usually discontinuous and irregular in limestones and sandstones, in which the water only occupies more or less spacious fissures.

When natural issues are wanting human industry is able, by boring, to make openings down to the subterranean waters, which it causes to jet up to the surface and sometimes to a considerable height above. The thought of undertaking such works is a very ancient one. The Egyptians had recourse to them forty centuries ago; and they were executed in France in 1126 at Artois, whence the name of artesian wells has been given to them.

The water levels of the cretaceous strata, from which the artesian waters issue, are not always of advantage; but in the north of France and in Belgium they constitute the most formidable obstacle which miners have to encounter in reaching the coal beds.

A striking confirmation of the theory of the source of supply of artesian waters has been observed in Tours, where the water, spouting with great velocity from a well 110 meters in depth, brings up, together with fine sand, fresh-water shells and seeds in such a state of preservation as to show that they could not have been more than three or four months on their voyage. Some of the wells of the Vady Rir have also ejected fresh-water mollusks, fish and crabs, still living, which must, therefore, have made a still more rapid transit.—[Popular Science Monthly.]

Notice to the Public of these Islands

Wedding Cakes!

Ladies or gentlemen who contemplate giving orders for the above article are respectfully requested to call at the Honolulu Pioneer Steam Candy Factory and Bakery, established 1863, before going to any other house, as my establishment is POSITIVELY the only establishment in Honolulu, notwithstanding all the ridiculous, empty and pompous newspaper blowing and puffing, where a cake can be procured to give the greatest satisfaction to the most refined tastes, and to be an ornament of exquisite workmanship on your table which will not crumble in pieces when cut, but be a credit to the fine art of the Confectioner, which has not only for twenty-five years but still bids competition defiance to this day. All attempts in any other establishment are inferior to mine and not worth the price you pay. It is an indisputable fact that all over the world a good workman's productions are always cheaper than a half-made one's are. Having had over half a century's practical experience the undersigned is enabled to ornament Cakes in all the highest styles of art.
